At PCS, Class Plays and Recitations Encourage Mastery of Rich Texts

One of the tenets of classical education is the belief that memorization is key to mastery at every level of academia. Every PCS student from K5-12th grade starts the school day with the recitation of our school verse (this year, 1 Kings 8: 54-61) and the Lord's Prayer in Latin. Recitation is included in our curriculum as well, with various grades learning significant passages from Scripture, ancient poetry, the works of Shakespeare, and the Declaration of Independence to name a few. We look forward to sharing our students' recitation talents during their Closing Ceremony performances on May 21.

Pictured Above: Mrs. Mick's 3rd grade class sets the stage for Mt. Olympus with their "Greek Myths" play. In addition to oral recitation, several classes perform annual plays which allow them to engage with their novel studies first-hand. Mrs. Rahalewicz's 5th grade class is currently rehearsing their Robin Hood play.

PCS Students Participate in SCACS Fine Arts Competition

We are proud of every PCS student who participated in this year's SCACS (South Carolina Association of Christian Schools) Fine Arts Festival. SCACS offers a wide variety of talent categories, from classical piano to photography. PCS students excelled amid elite statewide competition.

Paladins Flag Football

In addition to the return of coed soccer and girls' volleyball, this spring is also PCS's inaugural flag football season. Though new to the sport, the team of 14 middle school boys (pictured above) has already won two games so far, outscoring their opponents by nearly 30 points per game. Sixth graders Colin Davis and Caleb Rigby made school history, scoring the first interception and touchdown respectively.

Message from the Head of School

This month's edition of our student newspaper, Providence Monthly, contains a reflection from PCS junior, Jeannette Smit. I have shared an excerpt from her writing below. We give God all the glory for what He is continuing to do through PCS and pray that we would indeed be an example to a lost and dying world of the hope we have in Christ.

"Hope has bound humanity together in a common struggle through a global crisis, and it will be what holds us together during whatever comes our way in the future. Providence Classical has been a tremendous source of that hope by pressing onward and allowing in-person schooling to continue...With the tedious continuation of the pandemic for over a year now, Providence has been a breath of fresh air in adapting to and learning to live with an unfortunate situation. As Covid-19 continues to die down and life begins to resume its original pattern, Providence will long remain as an example to future generations of striving through hardships and providing hope for a better tomorrow."
